

Number

by student

(See Bibliography Page)

85

Commercial Press 19

The Pocket English - Chinese (Pinyin) Dictionary; - Beijing: The Commercial Press 1983.

valuation

Complete Form with Entries Under the "Business" Section
Objectives: I. Course Content: II. Method of Instruction: III. Course

0. COURSE OBJECTIVES

The student will be expected to demonstrate proficiency in Chinese at the intermediate level in

1. Aural comprehension of authentic language situations
2. Reading comprehension of prose material 750 Chinese characters
3. Speech delivery: expressing an opinion; defending a point of view
4. Written expression: expository writing utilizing the above base 750 Chinese characters
5. Acquisition of knowledge of Chinese characters

1. COURSE CONTENT

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

An eclectic, communicative, and structural approach is used.

Classroom activities include: small group practice of syntactic and lexical

...written... compositions... visual presentations... collection and discussion of... world and oral presentations

EVALUATION

...evaluation system... continuous testing to assess mastery... final exam to assess proficiency in the entire course

Tests include listening, speaking, reading, writing and cultural knowledge.

Students must successfully complete both parts of the course (the written and oral components) in order to achieve a passing grade. The minimum mark for each component is 70%.

Oral Work (presentations, discussions) 25%

Written Work (compositions and regular quizzes) 35%

10%

Attendance and Participation

on reading material)

15%

Oral Final Exam (interview)

Final Exam (grammar, vocabulary, composition)

15%

Written Final Exam

100%