

A. Division: APPLIED PROGRAMS Date: January, 1993

B. Department: COMMERCE AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION New Course:

Dated: June, 1991

C. OADP 124 D. ANATOMY, PHYSIOLOGY & PHARMACOLOGY
Subject & Course No. Descriptive Title Semester/Credits

E. Calendar Description: Summary of Revisions:

By the study of prefixes, suffixes, and root words. This course is designed to teach the medical language abbreviations and pronunciation of words. Anatomy and physiology. (Revised) This course is designed to teach the medical language of office assistants. Vocabulary, terminology, and the use of the medical dictionary.
This course is designed to teach the medical language of office assistants.

NAME AND NUMBER OF COURSE

Member, Ruth and Dana Wood, The Ho

WORLDWIDE TO ACCOMPANY ABOVE

NAME AND NUMBER OF COURSE

P. COURSE CONTENT Continued

3.0 Introduction to the Disease Process

3.1 causes and predisposing causes of

3.2 incidence of disease

3.3 communicable, epidemic, and endemic disease

3.5 infection and modes of transmission

3.6 pathogenic organisms

3.7 cross-infection

4.0 Gross-Intestine

4.1 Alphabetical

4.1 Digestive Sys

4.1 vocabula

4.1 the dige

disease

bone

ry, foot-words, suffixes, prefixes, abbreviations and pronunciation of words pertaining to sbive system

