

A: Division: ACADEMIC

DATE: October 25, 1993

Revision of Course

C: PSYCHOLOGY 341 D: ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY E: 3
Subject & Course No. User & Title Elective Credit

F: Calendar Description:

Summary of Revision:

of abnormal psychology and to a selection of disorders. Topics include the history of psychology, pathology, diagnosis, classification, assessment, research methods, theories of etiology, and approaches to treatment.

H: Course Prerequisites:

G: Type of Instruction: Hours Per Week

Pay 200

Per Semester

4 Hrs.
Hrs.
Hrs.
Hrs.

I: Course Corequisites

Lecture
Laboratory
Seminar
Clinical Experience

K: Maximum Class Size:
35

Field Experience
Practicum
Shop
Studio
Student Directed Learning
Other

TOTAL

4

UNIDS

Requested

X

L: College Credit Transfer

X

Granted
Specify Course

Spe

Appropriate)

U.B.C. = Psy 204 (3)

S.F.II = Psy 241 (3)

U.C. = Psy (1.5)

200 Level

OTHER:

[Handwritten signatures and stamps]

N: Textbooks and materials to be Purchased by Students

(Use the following information)

Davidson, G. & Neale, J. (1994). Abnormal Psychology. 6th edition, or similar text.

Text will be updated periodically.

How the findings are completed for with entries under the fo

Method of instruction: 0. Course Objectives: P. Course Content

Evaluation: R. Course

COURSE OBJECTIVES: O. COURSE

student will be able to: At the conclusion of the course, the

1. Define abnormality

2. Describe the perceived causes and prior to the twentieth century.

3. Describe the biological, psychoanalytic, learning and cognitive paradigms of psychopathology.

4. Describe the treatments of abnormal behaviour.

COURSE OBJECTIVES - cont'd

11. Describe the symptoms and associated features of anxiety disorders, somatoform disorders, dissociative disorders, personality disorders, and eating disorders.

Describe the etiology for each disorder.

12. Describe and evaluate the theories of etiology and biological therapies for each disorder.

Describe the psychological and biological therapies for each disorder.

13. Describe and evaluate the psychological and biological therapies for each disorder.

Describe the etiology for each disorder.

14. Describe and discuss issues related to criminal responsibility.

15. Describe and discuss the clinical applications of the theories of etiology and biological therapies for each disorder.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

P. COURSE

WRITE - continue

COURSE: CO

6. Anxiety Disorders
Description
Series of etiology

6. Anxiety
Disorders
The

