

A: Division: INSTRUCTIONAL
FEBRUARY 1997
ANTHROPOLOGY/ANTHROPOLOGY
INFORMATION FORM

New Course: _____
 Faculty: _____
 Department: SOCIETY & SOCIAL SCIENCES

Revised: _____
APRIL 1997

INTRODUCTION TO SOCIAL THEORY

Subject & Course No. _____ Semester Credit _____

F: Calendar Description: An examination of the development of various sociological theories and their relevance to the present. Section C.E.P. Within the social and cultural disciplines, in social institutions and processes, and in everyday life. The evolution of conflict, functionalist, interactionist, and comparative approaches will be examined and compared.

ber

Subject and Course Number

one form;

Textbook and Materials to be Read by Students and Criteria to be Furnished by Students

One example is:

ary Perspectives, 3rd ed. Toronto:

Grabb, E. Theories of Social Inequality: Classical and Contemporary

Subject and Course Number

P. COURSE CONTENT CONT'D.

- 8. Systems and structuration theories
- 9. The Symbolic-Interactionist approach.

emerging theory: Feminism, State, Dependency, and World Systems Theories.

10. Eme

Application of theories to contemporary issues and social changes.

11. App

through formal lecture and class discussion. Audiovisual aids will be

The course will be presented mainly

COURSE EVALUATION

Evaluation will be based on the course objectives in keeping with the current College policy.